Santa Claus

The Workshop · North Pole

Dear Ava,

What a year it has been! The elves told me how you helped your little brother learn to ride his bike this summer, running beside him until he could do it on his own. That was kind and patient, and it made me smile.

I also heard that you kept practicing your reading, even on the nights the words were hard. Mrs. Claus says you are reading chapter books now. Keep going: there are wonderful stories waiting for you.

The reindeer are practicing their take-offs, and Dasher is the fastest this year. Remember to be in bed early on Christmas Eve, and keep being the kind, brave person you are.

Love,
Santa

P.S. Thank you for the carrots last year. The reindeer loved them!
